

Flexuality Test Report:

At the start of the test, you identified yourself as Heterosexual. Your answers on the Flexuality Test suggest you may be Straight. Press the 'Print Screen' key (near the F12 key) to copy this screen to your clipboard for future reference, or print using the icon above. Please scroll down for more about your profile.

These charts illustrate your complete profile. A score of 0 indicates that the trait is absent. Higher scores (up to 10) indicate the degree to which your answers match a particular sexual type or trait. Many of the types overlap, so more than one may be present in your profile, and you should feel free to identify with the type that you think is most accurate.

Please keep in mind that there is nothing magical about this test. The resulting profile is based entirely on the answers you give and is intended to provide a framework to help you think about sexual orientation. It cannot reveal sexual tendencies of which you are unaware. If the profile seems inaccurate to you, trust your judgment; the test cannot uncover something you have kept secret from yourself.

When you are ready, click 'next' to close your report and visit the Flexuality Blog to see more information about the different traits. You will not be able to return to your results once you click 'next'.